Roosevelt Names Murphy to High Court

APPOINTS 5TH NEW DEALER TO U. S. TRIBUNAL

Attorney General, Ex-Governor of Michigan to Replace Late Justice Butler.

GETS SOLID MAJORITY

President's Latest Selection Leaves 4 Veteran Jurists on 9-Post Court.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Along with his nomination of Attorney General Frank Murphy to the post of supreme court justice, President Roosevelt today nominated Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson to succeed Murphy as head of the department of justice.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today nominated Attorney General Frank Murphy as his fifth appointee to the supreme court.

Senate confirmation of the lean Michigan New Dealer as an associate justice will put a solid majority of Roosevelt appointees on the court.

Deaths and retirements opened five vacancies among the nine places on the bench within less than three years—all since Mr. Roosevelt fought and lost his battle in the spring of 1937 to reorganize the court because he did not like its "horse and buggy" interpretations of the constitution.

Murphy's appointment came as no great surprise to observers at the capital. The attorney general was generally regarded as the president's choice for the vacancy created by the death of Justice Pierce Butler who died in November at the age of 73.

Mr. Roosevelt is the first president since William Howard Taft to name five justices. His other appointments were Hugo L. Black in 1937, Stanley F. Reed in 1938, Felix Frankfurter in 1939, and William O. Douglas in 1939.

Murphy is 46 and a member of the Catholic church. There is no

RISING MERCURY BRINGS RESPITE

City Gets First Zero Reading of Season But Temperature Begins Climbing.

The Mansfield area was due to get a brief respite today from the five-day cold wave which early this morning brought the city its first zero reading of the season.

Cloudy with slowly rising temperature was the forecast for tonight. Friday will be generally fair and slightly colder, the weatherman said.

Although it may not have seemed as cold this morning because there was no wind, the official reading in Mansfield was zero, one of the lowest in the state. It was four below zero in Hocking county, south of Columbus.

The temperature began to rise at noon today with the mercury climbing to 16 degrees. It was the city's highest noon reading since last Saturday. The average temperature for the past 24 hours was 7.5 degrees although the average for the date is 30.7.

With a 10-degree reading this morning, Cleveland had its coldest weather of the winter. Columbus reported six above and Cincinnati 18 above.

The state highway department reported all roads open to traffic, but a light snow was drifting in Ashtabula county. There was a trace of snow in other sections of the state and more snow was forecast for today in southern Ohio.

COUNTY ACTS TO WIPE OUT BONDED DEBT

$31,932 Allowed for Bonds to Leave Richland Debt-Free at End of 1940.

FIRST TIME IN 25 YEARS

$673,948 Appropriated for '40 County Operations, An Increase of $30,879.

Richland county had started its last year of bonded indebtedness today as county commissioners set up an appropriation providing $673,948 for operation of the county government in 1940 and the last payment on its debt.

Included in the new appropriation is $31,932 for bonds which will leave the county debt-free at the end of the year for the first time in at least a quarter century.

Because of the reduction in the amount needed for debts this year, the total operation and debt appropriation for 1940 is up only $3,085 from the 1939 figure which amounted to $670,863.

Operating Fund Higher.

There will be an increase of $30,879, however, in the funds available for operation alone, with the general fund appropriation set at $391,897 for this year as compared with $361,000 in 1939.

Approximately $26,000 of the $30,000 increase in the general fund for 1940 will pay for keeping county tuberculosis patients in state hospitals. Half of the $26,000 fund will be used for debts carried over from 1939 and the other half for 1940 expenses. The money will come from a half-mill T.B. levy which became effective this year.

Appropriations for operation of seven of the county departments were increased, one was reduced and six remained the same.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe pointed out that although the county debt will be wiped out this year, there will still be a state-authorized relief debt of about $18,000. It will be paid from state funds, however, and is not a direct county obligation.

When the county bonded indebtedness is paid off this year there will be no more debt unless the Locke Names Attorney to Civil Service Board.

The appointment of Atty. James V. Will, former Richland county prosecutor to the civil service commission for a six-year term was announced today by Mayor William J. Locke.

Will, a member of the Republican executive committee, succeeds Dr. L. C. Benedict, veteran Republican member of the board whose term expired Dec. 31.

He is the second attorney to be named to the commission in the past two years, and his appointment leaves the political complexion of the three-member board unchanged. Atty. George W. Biddle named two years ago by former Mayor C. M. Hunter is the lone Democrat. F. F. Huber is the other Republican.

Will has served as assistant county prosecutor and later as prosecutor. He is a World war veteran.

He declined further comment.

Final Tribute Paid Ashbrook in House, Funeral Tomorrow

William A. Ashbrook, former 17th district congressman who died at his home in Johnstown Monday, was honored by the House of Representatives yesterday when it convened in Washington.

Representative Crosser, dean of the Ohio Democrats, described Ashbrook as "a genuine man who took his duties conscientiously" as congress paused to pay tribute to eight colleagues who had died since the special session last November.

In final tribute to their former associate a delegation of Ohio political figures headed by Senators Robert A. Taft and A. Vic Donahey and Congressman Crosser will attend funeral services at the Ashbrook home.

The services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Johnstown with Dr. A. A. Shaw, president of Denison university, and a close friend of the family, officiating. Burial will be in a Johnstown cemetery.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch from Washington said Charles West, former undersecretary of interior, declared he had told Democratic leaders in the 17th Ohio congressional district he "would give consideration to their request" he run for congress.

New Ashland Mayor Puts Curb On Drinking By City Workers

(By Staff Correspondent)

ASHLAND—Police and firemen today were given a warning on the uses of liquor when the city's new mayor, 32-year-old Howard S. Lutz, said intoxication, on or off duty, would be punished by removal from office.

The mayor pointed out that while he did not intend to dictate their drinking habits, he said excessive drinking on or off duty was unbecoming of city employes and is prohibited.

At the same time Fire Chief Charles L. Clark was asked about the department's laundry costs, which Lutz said was nearly three times as much as when done by a commercial laundry. The work is now done by the wife of a fireman.

In office only three days, the mayor announced his intention to make the office of fire chief an honorary post with no salary attached. The position now carries an annual salary of $410.

Firemen, policemen and other civil service employes also are forbidden, by another ruling of the mayor, from "engaging in games in public places." Lutz said the regulation was intended to curb gambling and applied to such places as poolrooms.

Lutz said he had not yet received an answer from Clark on his demand for an explanation of the difference in laundry costs after Mrs. Jean B. Ewing, wife of a department fire truck driver, began doing the work.

The mayor said that in the period from April 22, 1938, to Dec. 30, 1939, fire department laundry expenditures were $379.45. He said Mrs. Ewing did the cleaning during that time.

From Aug. 15, 1936 to April 15, 1938, a period of 20 months, the costs for the same amount of work, he said totaled only $164.99 and the cleaning was done by an Ashland laundry.

15 INJURED IN BURNING HOTEL

50 Others Rescued As $200,000 Blaze Hits Omaha Building.

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—Fifteen persons were injured in a fire which destroyed the interior of the eight-story Henshaw hotel in the heart of Omaha's business district early today, causing damage estimated at more than $200,000.

Firemen rescued 50 hotel patrons, some elderly, as near-zero weather turned water from 15 streams into a sheath of ice on the 32-year-old hotel and an adjoining building which also burned.

The flames spread rapidly, giving hotel employes little time to arouse the patrons. Firemen centered their first efforts on rescue work, then turned to the task of conquering the flames.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(AP)—Fire forced several hundred pupils to leave the Point Street grammar school here today. The upper floors of the structure were quickly consumed by the flames and firemen were being driven out of the lower floors as they searched for possible victims.

All 400 pupils, however, escaped, some by fire escapes from the third floor. They were forced to flee without overcoats into the frigid winter atmosphere, but were given temporary shelter in a parochial school across the street.

Principal George Thompson, who sounded the first of three alarms, was slightly burned about the neck when he went to the third floor to make certain all his charges had reached safety.

Roosevelt Sets Up Program for Defense Needs

Budget Message to Congress Urges Cut In Farm, Relief, Public Works Costs; Forecasts Record Low Deficit of $1,716,000,000 for Fiscal Year

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt urged congress today to slash farm, relief and public works spending in a budget message asking $460,000,000 of special defense taxes and proposing one of the smallest deficits in a decade.

If all his recommendations are followed, he forecast a net deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1 of $1,716,000,000, compared with an estimated $3,933,000,000 for the current year.

Cutting nearly everything in the budget except defense funds, the president estimated expenditures for the next fiscal year at $8,424,000,000, which he said would be $675,000,000 less than this year. Net receipts from existing taxes, not counting social security levies, would increase $382,000,000 to $5,548,000,000 because of better business.

Mr. Roosevelt bluntly told the legislators intent on making election-year records that "those who call for further cuts should have the courage and honesty to specify where they should be made."

For himself, he said, he was satisfied that no lower figures could be attained without impairing the administration of laws or working "undue hardships on individuals and economic groups."

"I refuse to accept the responsibility of adopting either alternative," he added.

Mr. Roosevelt did not tell congress how to raise the proposed defense taxes except that they should "follow the accepted principle of good taxation of taxing according to ability to pay and will avoid taxes which decrease consumer buying power."

These specifications appeared to rule out increased excise taxes, and suggested to some officials the possibility of higher income taxes all the way along the line.

Because Mr. Roosevelt sponsored a similar tax for New York when he was its governor, there was speculation that he might favor a flat tax or perhaps 5 per cent on the amount of money now paid in income taxes. For instance, if a person found his income tax to be $100 and the extra tax was 5 per cent, he would pay $105.

Gradual Tapering Off.

The message, read to the senate and the house by clerks, said that the government was "prepared to move forward on reduced rations." It proposed "a gradual tapering off, rather than an abrupt cessation of the deficit" lest, Mr. Roosevelt said, there be a "too drastic or too sudden curtailment" of support afforded the national economy by government spending.

The president shaved things so close that, on the basis of his figures, the federal debt on June

President's Request for Trade Pacts, Taxes Bring Disputes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Amid general congressional applause for President Roosevelt's pleas for peace and economy, sharp disputes broke out today over his recommendations for special defense taxes and continuance of the reciprocal trade program.

While awaiting presentation of the curtailed 1940-41 budget, party leaders scanned the chief executive's annual message for issues to be fought out in the coming presidential campaign.

Democrats were warm in their praise of the tone of the address, especially its re-declaration that the United States must stay out of war while trying to promote peace. Many Republicans joined in lauding this statement, although some termed the entire discussion of foreign and domestic policies too indefinite.

Their was bi-partisan acclaim, too, for the promise of retrenchment, but Roosevelt smilingly retorted to the cheers at yesterday's joint session, "You can't eat your cake and have it too."

Just as both parties are split over extending the reciprocal trade program beyond next June 12, so are they divided over the president's advocacy of sufficient additional taxes to pay for emergency defense spending. One of the congressmen privately predicted that no special tax would be passed at this session.

Seeks Funds for 10 Warships, Air Fleet of 10,000 Planes

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today asked congress to appropriate a record-breaking national defense fund of $1,839,000,000 for fiscal 1941 to finance unprecedented simultaneous construction of 10 battleships and boost America's airfleet to almost 10,000 planes.

No peace-time precedent for the huge expenditure proposed by the chief executive exists. Only in the World war days of 1918, 1919 and 1920 did the nation expend more funds for its land, sea and air defenses.

In addition to outright military and naval costs of $1,839,000,000, Mr. Roosevelt proposed some $497,000,000 of semi-defense and quasi-military expenditures which boosted the overall budgetary total for defense and related activities to $2,336,137,000—or about one dollar out of every four proposed for federal spending in fiscal 1941.

Highlights of Mr. Roosevelt's defense proposals:

1. $369,000,000 naval construction fund to add 24 new warships and continue construction of 92—a grand total of 116, including 10 battleships.

2. Funds to boost navy aircraft close to 3,000 and army aircraft to 6,550—a total of 9,550—by the end of fiscal 1941.

3. Appropriations to give the nation an armed force of 647,911—160,911 for the navy, 25,000 marines, 227,000 regular army, 235,000 national guard.

4. An emergency defense program of $574,000,000 for the balance of the current year and the 1941 fiscal year to remedy press-

Roosevelt Favors 26 Per Cent Slash In Farm Funds

MESSAGE ASKS BIGGEST CUT IN SUBSIDIES

President's Estimates Call for $908,255,707 Compared to $1,239,640,970.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt recommended today that agricultural appropriations, including the crop control and farm subsidy programs, be cut 26 per cent in the year starting next July 1. The economies thus effected would be about half the estimated net reduction in all government expenditures.

The chief executive asked congress to grant the agriculture department $908,255,707 compared with this year's record sum of $1,239,640,970, exclusive of funds for rural relief.

This would be a cut of $331,385,263 from this year's appropriation and would compare with the president's estimated net reduction of $675,000,000 in all governmental expenditures.

The largest reduction was proposed for farm subsidies. Mr. Roosevelt recommended that $725,642,740 be made available for subsidies, surplus disposal operations and crop insurance, compared with a current appropriation of $967,637,012.

In making this cut, the president expressed the hope that agricultural prices would advance to a point where next year's crops would bring farmers at least 75 per cent of "parity"—the price goal of crop control and surplus disposal programs. He pointed out that some commodities, particularly cotton, wheat, corn and cattle, had made rather sharp price gains since the outbreak of the European war.

No Parity Payments.

The budget recommendations contained no provision for parity payments. Congress voted $225,000,000 for such payments this year and $212,000,000 in the previous year without following a presidential suggestion that revenue measure be enacted to finance them.

"I do not suggest in any way," Mr. Roosevelt said, "abandonment of the policy of parity payments heretofore adopted, and future events may call for some appropriation to this end."

He noted, however, that congress had "failed to make any provision for the financing of these payments already made or obligated for 1938 and 1939 crops."

Included in the president's subsidy recommendations were:

A sum of $498,560,000 for soil conservation payments to farmers cooperating with crop programs and using soil conserving practices; $47,975,000 for payments to growers cooperating with the sugar control program; $172,678,812 for disposal of farm surpluses and $5,428,928 for operation of the wheat crop insurance program.

Cincinnati Gets Mayor; Bigelow Gets Wrist Slap

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Cincinnati has its 1940-41 mayor at last but while Herbert S. Bigelow gets no apparent satisfaction from the fact, there is plenty of speculation on what the white-haired preacher politician will do next.

Councilman Charles P. Taft's action yesterday in withdrawing his candidacy in favor of James G. Stewart, Republican who held the post the past two years, broke the deadlock created when Bigelow refused to vote for one or the other until certain demands were met.

Previously the four votes of the charter faction were behind Taft and the four Republicans behind Stewart. Bigelow offered his to the Republicans if they would promise not to attack the proportional representation system of electing councilmen, or to the charterites if they would give sympathetic consideration to three unnamed "things I am anxious about."

But Stewart was elected without Bigelow's vote and the independent was rebuked by Taft for "asking the privilege of stopping the wheels of council."

Thus ended, on the third ballot, the controversy started by Bigelow at the body's organization meeting New Year day, when he commented, "if I am such an untouchable, we'll have to wait."

He received the purse back, thanks to the person who found it, minus the more than $80 it contained when he dropped it in a downtown store. The finder took a roundabout way of returning the purse to its owner, M. Brenneman, R. D. 4, Mansfield, leaving it in another store the other day. The store then mailed the empty pocketbook to Brenneman who says the reward he offered for the pocketbook's return still goes.

BLAZE TOLL 18 WITH 24 HURT

Minneapolis Officials Check Through Ruins of Fire in Apartment Building.

(By International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS — All persons who were in the Marlborough apartment hotel when it was gutted by fire early yesterday with a known death toll of 18 were believed to have been accounted for today.

Earlier, authorities had expressed fears for 29 persons whose whereabouts were not known. These residents of the hotel, an old, three-story brick building, were located during the night either with relatives or with neighbors, police said.

At the height of the fire, many of those forced to flee into the streets in their nightclothes had sought refuge from the bitter cold of five degrees below zero, leading to confusion when a count of residents first was made.

Original estimates of the injured also were corrected today, police asserting that only 24 persons had required hospitalization. About 50 other persons suffered minor injuries, but were ministered to at the scene or later by Red Cross workers.

Some of those in hospitals were in critical condition, police said. Most of the injured had suffered burns, but many were hurt in jumps from the building, while others were overcome by smoke. Several firemen were injured, but only one seriously. Fireman Charles Young, 42, broke his back in a fall from the hotel roof.

BANK ROBBER 25 YEARS AGO FIGHTS RETURN TO PRISON

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — In 1936 Carlton Chilton won a fight against removal to Oklahoma to expiate a boyhood bank robbery—but today a similar battle confronted him.

Because of friends' efforts to obtain a pardon for him, Chilton, now 46, again is in a legal triangle with the governors of Oklahoma and Ohio. Both executives took office since 1939.

Oklahoma's governor, Leon C. Phillips refused a pardon and yesterday signed extradition papers for the Ohio highway department timekeeper who escaped 25 years ago from the Granite reformatory while serving a two-year sentence.

Chilton was convicted of taking $2,200 from the Calvin, Okla., National bank. The fugitive said he and a minister's son found the bank deserted when they entered it one noon. Chilton's pardon petition said he returned all but $30 of his share of the loot.

Former Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio refused extradition in 1936, then gave Chilton his $150-a-month state job.

The Clevelander, who married after coming to Ohio in 1929, staked his chances for avoiding extradition upon the friends who sought the pardon.

"I have just as many friends, and more, than I had before. My friends will fight for me again. I haven't any money. I want to clear my name. I got a dirty deal."

"To me, he's just a fugitive," remarked Phillips.

Phillips wrote Gov. John Bricker of Ohio asking an extradition hearing next week. Bricker was not available for comment.

IRELAND TENSE

Slaying of Detective Latest in Series of Disorders.

DUBLIN—(U.P.)—The slaying of a detective in a street battle at Cork marked a night of tension in Eire, during which the lower house of the dail (parliament) hurriedly empowered the government to intern suspected Irish Republican army terrorists without trial.

It was understood that Sean McCurtain, son of the former lord mayor of Work, the late Thomas McCurtain, had been detained for the slaying of Detective John Roche.

The elder McCurtain, one of a group of prominent hunger strikers during the so-called Black and Tan regime following the Easter, 1916, rebellion, was assassinated.

The internment bill goes to the senate today.

LIQUOR BILL SET AT 52 MILLIONS

Ohioans Spent $3,037,454 More Than In 1938, Report Says.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Ohioans spent almost 52 million dollars in 1939 for spirituous liquor, Jacob B. Taylor, state liquor director, estimated today. This was more than three million dollars in excess of the state's liquor bill for 1938.

Taylor estimated total 1939 state liquor sales at $51,698,351, an increase of $3,037,454 over the previous year. Sales during New Year week alone were estimated at $1,770,730.

Official figures on the year's liquor sales will be available next week.

PLAN TO RETURN PARTY HARMONY BEING MENACED

Kennedy, Duffy Declarations Stir Speculation; 'Big Wigs' Silent on Peace Meet.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — A bitter battle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination appeared inevitable today as early candidates squared away for pre-primary rounds, and party members began lining up behind their favorites.

The campaign took on definite shape with entry into the race of William J. Kennedy, former secretary of state, several weeks after former Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy announced he would seek the nomination.

Political leaders saw Duffy as a possible threat to any attempt to effect Democratic party harmony in view of his bitter attacks on the administration of former Gov. Martin L. Davey when the latter sought re-election in 1938.

Meanwhile, the party's "big-wigs" remained ominously silent concerning former Democratic State Chairman Francis Poulson's suggestion that a pre-primary caucus be held in Columbus to select a candidate the entire party might back and hope to elect.

Although Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach paid a brief visit to Columbus after Poulson had submitted his plan, the party's headquarters reported no statement had been prepared regarding the suggestion.

See Others Enter.

Nor would Democratic leaders commit themselves for or against Kennedy or Duffy. Their silence was interpreted by some as an indication that others were expected to enter the contest before the March 15 deadline for filing intentions of candidacy.

Still considered as possible candidates for the nomination were former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Kent; National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati; former Gov. George White, Marietta, and others.

And that, at present, is the lineup in the 1940 battle for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

But political spokesmen contend it will look more like a "free-for-all" in the near future.

UNITY GUARDED

Hitler's 'Charm Girl' Nears Her Home in Britain.

LONDON — (U.P.) — Unity Freeman-Mitford was expected here by automobile today from the channel port of Folkestone and it was understood that she would enter a nursing home to be treated for some undisclosed ailment incurred at Munich soon after her friend, Adolf Hitler, went to war with her native Britain.

Her dramatic arrival at Folkestone yesterday, guarded by troops with bayonets as she was carried on a stretcher from a steamer from France, served only to deepen the mystery of her ailment. Published reports that she was suffering from a gunshot wound in the head were not confirmed.

Lord Redesdale, her father, said: "My daughter is still very ill. That's all I can say. She is rapidly getting better but she has been desperately ill. She is quite worn out, poor thing."

Race Wire 'King' Must Face His Admission of Running Illegal Business

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Moe Annenberg, the millionaire racketeer, who is soon to go to trial in the federal court in Chicago, or plead guilty, according to his choice, in an embarrassing situation, branded himself by his own pleadings in court in 1934.

Mr. Annenberg denies he is a racketeer, and there has been some informal discussion in Washington and Chicago of the fact that, in the guise of a Republican newspaper publisher in Philadelphia, where he fought the New Deal, he incurred the political displeasure of the Roosevelt administration. Mention is made of this by way of suggesting that he might be a victim of political persecution, but the fact remains that after a long and incredibly prosperous career in the illegal horse-room gambling racket, Mr. Annenberg now stands accused of withholding about five million dollars in income taxes.

There are other indictments, and the investigation and prosecution invades the field of the criminal alliance between politicians, including cheap and vicious shysters who defile the bench in Chicago and the legislature in Springfield, and gangsters of the foulest type.

Mr. Annenberg admitted he was in illegal business in a motion which his attorneys filed in the circuit court of Cook county, Illinois, of which Chicago is the most part, on Dec. 14, 1934. In that case he and others in the same racket had been sued by John J. Lynch, their partner, for an accounting and division of the profits of the General News bureau, which furnished race results and other information to gambling rooms.

In his reply, made by the noted Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, Mr. Annenberg said:

"It appears on the face of the bill of complaint that the subject matter of the lawsuit is a division of the profits made by supplying gamblers and handbook operators with certain essentials which are necessary in the conduct of said gambling or handbook business. Equity will not take jurisdiction or order an accounting between participants in an illegal business, nor will equity aid and abet anyone engaged in an illegal business to obtain from others his fair share of the profits resulting from said business."

This defense was signed with the law firm's name and sworn to by Robert N. Goldberg as a member of the firm. A similar but slightly more rugged statement of the same contention was offered by Albert Fink as counsel for a number of other defendants in the same action. He called the profits "loot."

The suit was settled out of court.

This defense came back to plague Mr. Annenberg last November, when William J. Campbell, the federal district attorney, and Thomas J. Courtney, the Cook county prosecutor, asked for an injunction to forbid the telephone and telegraph companies to provide wire facilities for the operation of Mr. Annenberg's underworld racket. Denial of the wires would be a terrible blow to the racket, and Mr. Annenberg asked relief in the federal court.

Mr. Campbell was ready for him. He was ready to cite against him Moe's own contention that an illegal business had no standing in court, and, moreover, he had assembled in town Police Commissioner Valentine of New York, the mayor of Los Angeles, the attorney general of California, the chief constable of the Dominion of Canada and half a dozen other officials of American and Canadian communities to swear that the wire facilities were to be used in the operation of an illegal business.

At this point Mr. Annenberg agreed to give up an illegal business which had brought him millions and helped crooked politicians and police, not only in Illinois and Chicago but in many other cities and towns, to maintain an alliance between government and the criminal underworld.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It's a question which is more beautiful, in their respective niches, on the "Florian" set: Irina Baronova, the ballet star, or the milk-white horses which inspired the film.

Baronova, petite yet sturdy in the manner of the professional dancer, is no ordinary beauty. Her dark hair frames a piquant face in which large grey-green eyes can sparkle or smoulder or smile. They are intelligent eyes.

When she whirls in the ballet sequence—before a movie audience including Austrian Emperor Franz Josef, the crown prince on whom she has designs and the crown prince's betrothed—she becomes triply exciting, a triply gorgeous creature.

This is her first movie, and she plays a dramatic role in addition to her dancing. Daughter of a White Russian refugee in Paris, she began in ballet school when she was seven, began her professional career when she was 12. At 20, she was a star of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe when films called her—the films being represented by Winfield R. Sheehan, former Fox chieftain now returning to movie production battles.

THE whole Metro lot is excited about her, and nobody there believes she will be allowed to go, as she plans, on a ballet tour of South America. Everyone is certain that the movies will keep her this girl who says she must forget about the camera in order to act at all.

"I am terrified," she says. "I will not go to see the daily rushes. Maybe I look calm about it—inside I am oh! terrified!"

The horses, ah! they are beauties too, staunch and proud, stately and intelligent. They are the reason for the film, and here's why:

Sheehan, whose wife is the opera star Maria Jeritza, owns them—or rather Jeritza does. They were presented to her, for services to art and the Austrian state, by the late lamented Dollfuss government, in pre-Anschluss days. One day Sheehan noticed a curious mark on the flank of one of the horses—the Austrian royal crest.

He asked Jeritza. "They are Lippizans," said she. "Felix Salten has written a book about them. It is called 'Florian.'"

SHEEHAN read the book, and everything he could find on the subject. Lippizans are a proud breed, first developed by the Austrian royal house in 1500 and reaching the status of a perfect strain 80 years later. The breed was designed to meet—in battle—the then superior Turkish cavalry, and was distinctly noble in character and use. For generations none of the horses was permitted to leave Austria—the gift to Jeritza was, of course, from a democratic government.

To get the horses into this country presented, for a time, a difficulty unconnected with historical tradition. The boat arrived during a waterfront strike—but the striking longshoremen, either in sympathy for Sheehan or for the horses, permitted them to be unloaded.

Sheehan, whose avocation is the breeding of horseflesh, is especially proud of these specimens. Four originally, they are now six—and there's always the future. The Lippizans are born black, turn silver, then gray, and finally milk-white.

THIS is the time of year when high school basketball coaches start sizing up their district rivals.

District tournament play is still several weeks in the distance, but Coach Vern Hoffman of Mansfield high is already checking up on the caliber of ball that probable rivals in the annual elimination are displaying.

Season's records are usually worthless in comparing tournament rivals as few teams meet more than a few common foes, but the Tyger tactician is particularly impressed with his old school, Bellevue, and Fremont These two teams stack up as the Tygers' major rivals in their defense of the district crown, it now appears.

Mansfield, with Russ Beer at center, holds an important height advantage over both quintets, but Bellevue is as fast as they come on the basketball court. Fremont packs more experience than the majority of the district teams.

Despite the fact that the tournament will again be staged on its home floor, Sandusky is not regarded seriously at this writing. The Blue Streaks lost to both Mansfield and Bellevue by lopsided scores.

Port Clinton has whipped some strong teams, but the Sailors' achievements are usually dulled by the fact that they play many Class B opponents.

Willard has won something like four straight games after dropping its first three, and the Railroaders may have something to say about determining the district honors. Norwalk and the Tiffin schools have yet to produce a brand of ball out of the ordinary.

Ashland and Shelby of this vicinity have also to prove that they will be contenders.

Purchases Improve Playground Facilities.

PURCHASE of additional property for athletic purposes at Mansfield schools is another step toward the construction of one of the most elaborate physical education programs sponsored in a city of this size.

John Simpson Junior high school has had the use of one of the fields purchased for several years, but it lacked the necessary improvements, and, consequently, was of little use.

The plans are to improve the Temple court addition for football with both the junior high and grade school using the field. Last fall it was hardly fit for training purposes, let alone games.

The vacant lots purchased in the addition behind the west stands at Stadium field will give the Tygers a badly needed practice field.

It is also planned to convert part of the property into a parking lot as the streets in the proximity of the stadium fail to provide the parking space needed when big games are staged.

With nocturnal football on schedule for the high school next fall, the additional parking room can be used to advantage.

While little mention has been made of the fact, Mansfield has another athletic field that will be ready for use this year.

It is located in the rear of the new Appleseed Junior high, and it is a natural arena for athletic affairs, particularly football.

Yanks Evade 'No-Trade' Rule, Get Grissom From Redlegs

Deal Sending Rookie Joe Beggs to Cincinnati Prompts Eyebrow Lifting.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The first kick-back from the American league's "no-trade" rule, which was directed at the Yankees, came today when the world champions evaded the legislation by making a deal with the Cincinnati Reds under the waiver guise.

In an unusual deal which prompted a lot of eyebrow lifting, the Yanks obtained Pitcher Lee Grissom in exchange for Pitcher Joe Beggs from their Newark farm club.

Before the Reds could dispose of Grissom, a big left-hander who looked like a comer in 1937 but never lived up to his promise, they had to waive him out of the National league. The fact that the Reds were able to obtain waivers came as a surprise. Several National league clubs could have done worse.

Disposal of Grissom means that the Reds are counting heavily on Johnny (No-Hit) Vander Meer to stage a comeback in 1940. If Vander Meer doesn't come back to his 1938 form the Reds will have to depend entirely on Milburn Shoffner, picked up from the Bees late last season, for their southpaw chores.

Grissom spent three full seasons and part of two others with Cincinnati after coming up from Ft. Worth in 1935. He won 25 games and lost 30 during his stay with the Reds. His most active year was 1937 when he won 12 games and lost 17 for a last-place club. Last year with a pennant winner he won nine and lost seven and had an earned run average of 4.09.

What the Yanks plan to do with Grissom, a temperamental fellow definitely on the screw ball side, is problematical. They may look him over in the spring or he may wind up in Newark or Kansas City. Those hall players who come to the Yanks off another major league club have a way of outdoing themselves once they get in the Yankee chain.

Beggs, who is a 26-year-old righthander, is likely to stick with the Reds and may even win a regular job. Since the Yanks have had him in Newark three years, and have given him two tryouts with the New York varsity, they couldn't send him out on option any more. He is more than a $7,500 pitcher, the price Grissom must be valued at since he became a waiver-priced player when no National league club showed any interest in him.

Beggs is a rubber-armed pitcher who's stuff breaks sharply like a fork-ball. He has had outstanding success pitching low, which is the National way of chucking. He likes to work often. He's a graduate of Geneva college, where he was a star javelin thrower.

His best year was 1937 when he won 21 and lost four for Newark. He was with the Yanks part of 1938, winning three and losing two, before going back to Newark, where he won six and lost three. His record last year was 12 victories and 10 defeats with an earned run average of 3.80.

Baseball circles first reactions to the deal was "What's the matter with Beggs?" When the Yanks get rid of a player everyone is skeptical of his ability but Newark club officials said they believed Beggs was good enough to make any major league club except the Yankees.

The Mayflower five encountered trouble from the desperate First Methodist outfit. Taking a slim 4-3 advantage in the opening quarter, the winners were able to protect the lead to the final gun, but not before First Methodist gave them several scares.

Japanese Star To Return Here

Kiman Kudo Meets 'Babe' Kasoboski Monday Night.

Kiman Kudo, likeable little Japanese jiu jitsu wrestling star, who has become one of the favorites of Mansfield fans with his great mat work here this winter, has signed to appear in the feature event of next Monday night's show in the Armory.

One of the most formidable matmen in the light and junior heavyweight division, Alex Kasoboski, "Pitiless Pole" of Toronto, Ont., has been signed to match mat wits and brawn with the clever little Japanese.

Articles for the match call for the men to wrestle for two best out of three falls with an hour and a half time limit under the rules of the Midwest Wrestling association.

Kudo is one of the smoothest mat artists to ever set foot in the local ring. A master of the jiu jitsu mat art, he is also well versed in the American catch-as-catch-can style. Kasoboski is a burly Polish boy who learned his wrestling in the hard, tough school of Stanley Stasiak, greatest of the Polish heavyweights, now dead.

Two reasons why the Mansfield high school cagers have done so well on the court this season are Bill Herpich and Don Rose, left and right, respectively. The defensive play of this pair of guards has been a feature of the majority of Tyger games this season.

Oppose Sports Cagers

Yuncker, Blue Goose Teams Get Chance to Gain Share of Crown at High School.

ENCOURAGED by their victories over the Blue Goose Sohioans and Westinghouse Electrics, Dave Shelley's Chocolates will attempt to clinch the first round title of the City Class A league at Mansfield high school tonight.

In case the Sports win, the race will be thrown into deadlock.

A three-way tie for the first round title is possible if the Blue Goose Sohioans beat the Westinghouse club.. In other words, a lot can happen out at the Tyger lair tonight.

Strengthened by the addition of Russ Hoff, former Mansfield high star, the Chocolates are expected to be hard to measure off. Hoff will give the Shelley team more height, and that is what it needs more than anything else.

The Chocolates have speed to burn, but have encountered some trouble in sharing in the rebounds.

Freddy Lewis and Noel Morgan have been particularly outstanding for the Shelley team this season, and they are two of the men the Sports will have to stop to win tonight.

Whether the Sports will be able to return to action tonight with their strength intact was doubful. Johnny Rees, who was out of the lineup when the Sports lost to the Sohioans, is ill, it was reported.

The Shelley-Yuncker game will follow the 7:30 p. m. meeting between the Blue Goose and Westinghouse quintets.

The outcome of this game will have an important bearing on the title as a Blue Goose victory will definitely cinch a share of the crown if the Chocolates lose.

MOST prized Christmas gift received by Spencer Tracy was an autographed copy of Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' "The Yearling," which is to be filmed with Tracy playing Penny Baxter On the fly leaf was written "Dear Spencer Tracy: Nothing finer could happen to Penny Baxter than to be brought to life by your great gift for the portrayal of man's courage and man's kindness." Tracy has been anxious to portray Penny ever since he read the book but has been worried because of his size which doesn't tally with that of the slight Florida "cracker" in the book Aside from the physical discrepancy, however, it is difficult to think of any other actor who could portray the gentle, patient and understanding father so well as Tracy ing defense deficiencies.

"In the proposed budget, I have tried to interpret the wishes of our people," Mr. Roosevelt said. "They want to strengthen our national defenses and are prepared to pay additional taxes for this purpose."

He called attention to the fact that his estimates included a supplemental deficiency estimate of $272,000,000 for the remainder of the current fiscal year in expanding the armed forces and enforcing the neutrality act, and an emergency appropriation of $302,000,000 to carry forward this phase in the 1941 year.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he did not believe that the majority of the public wants to reduce the $1,800,000,000 budgeted national defense items. It is, he said, "far less than many experts on national defense think should be spent, though in my judgment a sufficient amount for the coming year."

2 PROPERTIES UP AT AUCTION

73-Acre Farm, Wood Street House To Be Sold By Sheriff.

A 73-acre farm in Cass township and a property at 187 Wood street, Mansfield, will be offered for sale at 10 a. m. Saturday at sheriff's auction at the courthouse on foreclosure judgments totaling $3,425.

The Cass township farm, appraised at $3,550, will be sold on an order obtained by the Richland County Farm Bureau co-operative against Edgar L. Riggle and others. The judgment was for $104.

Valued at $3,600, the Mansfield property will go on the block to satisfy a judgment for $3,321 awarded the Home Owners Loan corporation in an action against Earney E Long and others.

TAXES, TREATIES BRING DISPUTES

President's Recommendations to Congress Seen Meeting Opposition.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the house ways and means committee said a measure to extend the reciprocal trade act would be introduced in a week, with public hearings following shortly thereafter. A defense tax bill, he said, will come up after the trade measure is debated.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic floor leader, said he thought the country would approve of the tax suggestion in lieu of increasing the deficit to pay for extra defense needs.

There are many ways of levying the tax, he said, such as lowering income tax exemptions or super-imposing a levy on the amount of taxes now paid.

Indicating opposition, Senator Connally (D-Tex) told reporter's

"My view is that there will not be any heavy increase in taxation this session. In 1941 a real tax bill will probably be passed."

Senator Vandernberg (R-Mich) said he "welcomed the president's "desire to put extraordinary expenditures on a pay-as-you-go-basis," while Senator Glass (D-Va) 82 years old today, remarked:

"They should have levied taxes every time they made an appropriation. We can't spend money without getting it out of the taxpayers' pockets."

While a few Democrats and most Republicans want to amend the reciprocal trade act to require senate ratification of each tariff-lowering pact with foreign nations. Senator Barkley joined house Democratic leaders in asserting that there should be no compromise.

That meant they favored letting the state department continue to make the agreements without senate approval, which under actual treaty-making practice requires a two-thirds vote.

OPENING GAINS WHITTLED BY PROFIT SELLING

Traders Cash in to Await President's Budget Message to Congress.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market ran into a little profit selling today after an early extension of Wednesday's upturn.

An active opening was followed by a slow-down. Initial advances running to a point or so were whittled down or erased.

Some traders were said to have cashed in to await the president's budget message to congress, due later in the day. Business news, on the whole, acted as a stabilizing influence.

Bonds were selectively improved. Commodities held to a steady course, as did European securities markets.

Further confirmation of the industrial upswing was seen in the American Telephone figures disclosing an increase of 775,700 stations during 1939.

Those watching utility issues noted the summary of the Edison Electric institute for the week ended Dec. 30, disclosing holiday shut downs brought a decline in power consumption of 9.1 per cent from the preceding week.

Oil company shares came in for study in the wake of the American Petroleum institute's estimate that daily average crude production last week was down substantially from the previous week but for December averaged daily 157,000 barrels more than the bureau of mines found necessary for requirements.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

COUNTY ACTS TO WIPE OUT DEBT

voters approve a bond issue, the auditor said.

As the result of the employment of a county T. B. physician, the amount set up for public health expenses was increased from $2,000 last year to $6,000.

There was an increase of $4,200 in the appropriation for county agricultural extension work to provide for the inspection of dairy cattle for tuberculosis. The examination is made every three years.

With a presidential election due in 1940, the board of elections' appropriation was boosted $2,000 to take care of additional expenses. The new appropriation is $24,500.

The county went on a cash payment basis this year in the maintenance of its inmates in state institutions and boosted the amount available for that purpose from $6,000 to $9,500. Last year only a part of the bills were paid.

BETTER BORROW THAN BOG

One of the saddest men we know is the fellow who never seems able to afford a new car or the household conveniences his wife longs for.

"After my bills are paid," he always says, "perhaps I can manage to save a little." But somehow he never does. You can lay a safe bet that this man has never heard of The City Loan. He doesn't know that he can borrow enough money here on his own signature and security . . . to square up all his debts and buy the things he needs besides. A single monthly payments covers everything.

New U. S. Budget Slashes Relief Cost to Record Low

REQUEST HITS LOWEST MARK SINCE 1933

Asks $1,433,000,000 to Carry Out Program; Slash Totals 503 Millions.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today chopped relief costs to the lowest level in New Deal history. He set a $1,433,000,000 budget for fiscal 1941, a reduction of $503,000,000 from the current spending level.

At the same time he reported that economic depression, starting in 1929, will have cost the nation some $29,805,000,000 in extraordinary expenditures by July 1, 1941.

Mr. Roosevelt set a WPA budget of a flat $1,000,000,000 for fiscal 1941 but warned that this was only a tentative estimate and that "if conditions fail to meet our hopes additional funds may be necessary."

His billion-dollar WPA figure will maintain rolls at an average of 1,350,000 persons. The present $1,400,000,000 fund provides for a 1,850,000 average.

His relief spending breaks down as follows:

Works Projects Administration, $1,000,000,000, reduction $400,000,000.

National Youth Administration, $83,000,000, reduction $12,000,000.

Civilian Conservation Corps, $225,000,000, reduction $60,000,000.

Farm Security Administration, $125,000,000, reduction, $31,000,000.

"In submitting estimates for these agencies," said Mr. Roosevelt, "I have taken into consideration the current improvement in business conditions. The first effects of increased business activity have not resulted in a proportionate reduction in relief needs.

"But there is reason to hope that a continued expansion of business would diminish relief requirements substantially. While the estimates are appreciably less than those for the current year, I am hopeful that they will prove adequate."

The president estimated that the reduced budgets would enable NYA to provide jobs to 600,000 youths, the CCC to carry a roll of 230,000 persons in 1,227 camps, and the Farm Security Administration to operate at approximately 80 per cent of its current level.

LUCAS COUNCIL RE-ORGANIZES

Three New Members Seated, Mayor Appoints Clerk to Fill Election Vacancy.

LUCAS—The seating of three new councilmen and the appointment of a village clerk and a member of the board of public affairs were highlights of a special session of the Lucas village council held here early this week.

At the same time, Mayor L. M. Smith entered upon his second term of office as chief executive of the village. Smith has served one full term and completed an unexpired term as mayor.

Sam Chamberlin, Leo C. Smith and Boyd Campbell were installed as new members of the village council. Fred Culler, Merle Nichols and Bert Mowers re-elected in the November election, entered upon new terms as councilmen.

Because Mrs. Carrie Zediker, elected village clerk last November, refused to qualify for the office, Mayor Smith named Ort Culler, incumbent clerk, to fill the two-year term. The appointment was promptly ratified by the council.

Robert Mowers was appointed by the mayor to fill a vacancy on the board of public affairs.

In the reorganization of the council Merle Nichols was named president of the body for the ensuing year.

The resignations of Sam Chamberlin and Leo Smith from the Lucas fire department because of their membership on the council were accepted with regret by the members.

other member of that faith on the supreme bench.

Called 'Whispering Baritone.'

Murphy is quiet spoken to a point where he is almost inaudible, and in his early political career in Detroit was dubbed "the whispering baritone."

His enemies, as well as his friends, conceded his absolute honesty and his conscientiousness, although they often disagreed vigorously with his policies.

He doesn't drink or smoke. He prizes a bible given him by his mother when very young, and reads a passage from it every night.

His one year as attorney general, like his two years as governor of Michigan, was a whirlwind.

Taking command of the justice department last January after he had been defeated for re-election as governor, he blasted corrupt political machines in Kansas City and Louisiana; created a special unit to investigate violations of civil liberties, energized enforcement of the anti-trust laws; swept erring judges out of the judiciary; and set G-men by the hundreds on the trail of spies and saboteurs.

With his elevation to the bench, his next-in-command, Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson, is slated to become attorney general. Thurman Arnold, the former Yale professor who heads the anti-trust division, or Circuit Court Judge Francis J. Biddle of Philadelphia are mentioned for Jackson's spot.

Indications were that Murphy's nomination would win easy senate confirmation. There were only 7 votes against him when he was confirmed as attorney general a year ago.

COUNCIL OK'S APPOINTMENTS

Confirms Selections by Mayor for Ashland Positions; Rejects Fire Change.

ASHLAND—Four new appointments of Jan. 3 were listed here in the ledger of Mayor Howard S. Lutz, who took office Jan. 1.

They include: Howard Maxheimer, chief operator, Paul Baker, operator, David Barnhart, caretaker at the Ashland treatment plant, and F. H. Welty, as requisition clerk. All appointments were approved by the city council.

But city council did not approve of Mayor Lutz's first proposal: that of the abolishing the salary of the fire chief and the establishing of a post for Captain of the Ashland fire department.

The new set-up, if passed, but which was defeated by a vote of three to two, would have meant that a driver from the force would have been named captain, and that he would have been made responsible for the training of fire fighting personnel.

The measure would have meant the increase of the salary of the captain to $1,800 from $1,440 and the abolishing of the $410 part time salary for the fire chief.

GALION—Fred Quiggle underwent a major operation Wednesday afternoon at Grant hospital, Columbus.

'CONSIDERS' NEW JOB FOR JENKINS

Sherwood Studies Request as Ex-Mansfielder Gives Up Prison Farm Post.

there was no likely openings at the present. He pointed out, however, that Jenkins would remain on the civil service eligibility list for a year, and that a position similar to that at London "might become available."

Jenkins who was superintendent of the Ohio State reformatory here until 1935 when he was transferred to London had been connected with the state penal system since he started here in 1905 as a guard and teacher. He was head of the reformatory for 17 years.

Last summer Sherwood ordered Jenkins to "clean up conditions" at the farm, mentioning gambling and contraband liquor traffic among prisoners. He named W. F. Amrine, state superintendent of corrections, as acting superintendent last Sept. 5 when Jenkins was granted a 90-day sick leave. Amrine will now receive a permanent appointment at the prison farm. The position pays $4,500 a year.

The retiring superintendent was suspended Dec. 5 when he attempted to return to duty at the expiration of his leave. Sherwood said then he would file ouster charges with the civil service commission unless Jenkins surrendered his post within 30 days.

State highway patrolmen said Ameling was driving the car and apparently reached the crest of the grade crossing before seeing the train. The men were employes of the Buckeye Pipe Line company.

ORDERS CUTS IN CORN ACREAGE

AAA Puts County Allotment at 26,928 for 1940, Hikes Payments.

Richland county farmers must reduce their 1940 corn acreage by 3,023 acres to comply with new federal AAA requirements, G. L. Taylor, county AAA chairman, announced today.

The county's corn acreage allotment was set at 26,928 as compared with 29,951 acres in 1939.

Making up for a part of the acreage reduction, however, will be a one-cent increase in the government conservation payment per bushel of corn. The payment will be 10 cents a bushel this year.

Taylor cited a huge increase in Ohio's corn production last fall as the reason for the cut in the acreage allotment. Although less acreage was planted last year than in 1938, 14,258,000 more bushels of corn was harvested.

"A carryover of 561 million bushels of corn in the nation in 1940 is the best way to tell county farmers corn acreage this year will have to come down in order to level off production and protect corn prices," Taylor said.

"Fewer acres plus higher yields as demonstrated in 1939 and the 10-cent conservation payment will more than protect farmers' income from corn this year," he added.

The cut in corn acreage is in contrast to the eight per cent increase in the county's wheat allotment for this year. Wheat production fell off in 1939 and the county's 1940 allotment was boosted to 27,784 acres.

SHOWS BALANCE

Shelby Fair Report Lists Funds at $51.55.

SHELBY—The annual financial report of the Shelby Community Street Fair association released today by Chester Monn, association treasurer, shows a balance of $51.55 in the association's funds.

At the close of 1938, the association had a balance of $168.26. The reason of the lower balance, Monn pointed out, was because more money was paid out for entertainment and premiums.

A total of $1,786.94 was obtained from various revenues last year, including the balance of the previous year of $168.26, and the expenditures were $1,614.48. The association returned $120.91 to the Shelby Better Business club, co-sponsors of the fair, which had given them a donation of $300.

PRESIDENT ASKS 460 MILLIONS IN NEW TAX LEVIES

Budget Message Sets Up Plan to Pay Defense Needs, Asks Cut in Farm, Relief Funds.

30, 1941, would be $61,000,000 short of the $45,000,000,000 maximum authorized by law. This would permit congress to defer until next year the controversial issue of whether that maximum should be increased.

The proposals for national defense included emergency funds for operations started since the European war — increased enlistments for the army, navy and coast guard, more anti-spy agents for the federal bureau of investigation, greater protection of the Panama Canal, and recommissioning of old navy and coast guard boats.

The new tax demand was only one of a number of challenges directed by the chief executive at congress.

Turning on critics who have claimed methods of balancing the budget, Mr. Roosevelt jibed:

"I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to balance the budget. It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences.

"But it is the old, old story of the man who loves to utter generalities and changes the subject abruptly when he is pinned down to hard facts * * *"

"In the proposed budget, I have tried to interpret the wishes of our people. They want to strengthen our national defense and are prepared to pay additional taxes for this purpose. They wish to attain, if possible, an over-all decrease in expenditures. They would like to see a reduction in the deficit but not of a magnitude that would imperil the progress of recovery."

Depends on Business.

The slash in relief spending, he explained, is based on the assumption that the business curve will continue upward and permit a reduction in the average number of WPA workers from 1,850,000 a month this year to 1,350,000 next year. But, he said, if business should stop advancing he might have to ask for more relief money.

Likewise, Mr. Roosevelt provided no new money for "parity" payments to farmers—a $225,000,000 item this year—in the hope that recent improvement in farm prices would make such payments unnecessary. This year, the payments were designed to assure farmers 75 per cent of parity (the pre-1914 level), and now cattle prices are above this level while wheat and cotton prices are close to it.

But if farm prices should fall, he made it plain, "future events may call for some appropriations to this end."

As in the case of the extra defense costs, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that new parity payments, if they become necessary, should be financed by additional taxes. This renewed a recommendation which congress ignored in voting parity payments last spring.

Asserting that deficits of the last decade had accomplished their purpose of increasing public purchasing power, the president said that although people had to pay $3,000,000,000 more taxes in 1937 than in 1933, they had $30,000,000,000 more money with which to meet the payments.

Too-rapid fiscal retrenchment, he said, was a factor in the recession of late 1937, adding that renewed spending had shortened to nine months the business relapse in contrast to the four-year decline after the 1929 collapse.

"As the budget is being prepared," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we are achieving the highest levels of production and consumption in our history. The extent to which recovery has progressed, and the decree to which speculation and price increases have, on the whole, been kept in check, have made it possible for us to consider a substantial lessening of government expenditures on activities not immediately essential for national defense.

"On the other hand employment still lags considerably below the levels of 1929. Many of our younger workers have not found employment. x x x we must, therefore, void the danger of too drastic or too sudden a curtailment of government support."

The president concluded his message with a long discussion of the growing national debt. Without once mentioning the controversy over boosting the $45,000,000,000 limit, he said:

"Those who state baldly that the government's debt is 42 billion dollars—and stop there—are stating a deceptive half-truth calculated to make our people apprehensive. For one thing, it would clarify the public mind if it were pointed out that of the 42-billion-dollar figure the amount incurred between June 30, 1933, and December 31, 1939, is just over 19 billion dollars.

Points To Gold Supply.

"For another thing, it would be more honest and more honorable for them to say that while one line in the national budget shows a national debt of 42 billion dollars, other lines indicate that the government has 7 billion dollars of cash, gold available for debt redemption, and proprietary interest in government corporations, which reduces the net debt to 35 billion dollars.

"In addition, of course, there are the billions of dollars' worth of durable, tangible assets constructed or purchased by the government that are a real offset to the debt, though never listed as such x x x

"When the increase in the public debt is viewed against the background of what was accomplished by the growth of useful physical assets and of effective national earning power, and by the strengthening of the nation's credit and morale, there is no economic ground for anxiety, so far as the national debt is concerned, as to the nation's future."

WHERE TREASURY'S MONEY'S GOING

Dramatizing proposed expenditures into approximate subdivisions which he said "any layman can understand," President Roosevelt, in his budget message, gave this picture of where the treasury's money is going:

Purpose	Fiscal Year 1941	Fiscal 1940
National Defense	$1,800,000,000	$1,500,000,000
Work Relief Programs	$1,300,000,000	$1,800,000,000
Agricultural Programs	$ 900,000,000	$1,300,000,000
Public Works and Investments	$1,100,000,000	$1,400,000,000
Pensions, Social Security, Etc.	$1,200,000,000	$1,100,000,000
Interest on the Public Debt	$1,100,000,000	$1,000,000,000
Regular Operating Costs	$1,000,000,000	$1,000,000,000

(The 1940 figures, not included in the budget message, are computed from official sources.)

Holiday Let-Down? Not At 'Y' With 8 Sessions Slated

While most organizations slicken their activities after the Christmas holidays, the Y. M. C. A. announced tomorrow's schedule was unusually heavy, with eight meetings scheduled.

Starting at 9 a. m. Friday with a meeting of the Pioneer gym class, Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., today announced the following schedule:

Y. M. C. A. Cadet basketball league, 10 a. m., with games between the Cardinals and the Braves, and the Reds versus the Giants; noon, Volley ball class; finals in the grade school basketball tournament at 2 p. m. with two games to be played; the evening business men's volley ball class at 5 p. m. and the Panthers gym class at 6:30.

The Y. M. C. A. boxing class will meet at 7 p. m., to be followed by a meeting of the Frank Lahm Cadets who will have a model racing contest. This meeting varies from the usual sessions in that members will exhibit their newly-built cars instead of airplanes, Chapman said. The final meeting scheduled for the day is the regular session of the Sea Scouts, at 7:30 p. m.

winter she will have additional foreign help by spring. Chairman Pittman of the foreign relations committee of the United States senate forecast immediate financial and other practical aid to Finland as a new session of congress got under way today.

In the larger but temporarily less violent war between Germany and Great Britain and France, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, the reich's No. 2 Nazi, has assumed supreme direction of the entire German war industry to concentrate and unify everything that concerns Germany's wartime economic policy.

The German high command reported intensified artillery fire on the western front, with scouting troops also more active. The French, reporting a quiet night on the front, said that two German planes were shot down by French planes yesterday.

The British press generally approved President Roosevelt's message to yesterday's opening session of congress, while official German reaction was reserved.

Praise Roosevelt Speech.

While the British observed that "the world is learning to find its oracle" in the president, authorized German sources said coolly that the message was for the American people "to decide whether the speech was compatible with congressional expressions of neutrality." They said there was "not much new" in the speech.

In one of a series of diplomatic maneuvers concerning Moscow, Bulgaria negotiated with Russia for increased trade with her. Foreign observers looked for possible Soviet demands for concessions—possibly military—in return for trade benefits.

The Irish parliament, spurred by rumors that members were marked for assassination by the outlawed Irish Republican Army, met for speedy final action on an emergency powers bill giving authority for a nationwide roundup of IRA members.

Asks Taxes to Strengthen Defense

AS WAS EXPECTED, President Roosevelt's message to congress dealt largely with national defense and set the stage for his budget message, scheduled for today.

The president was on safe ground, insofar as public sentiment is concerned, when he voiced America's earnest desire for continued peace and expressed belief that the United States will not become involved in "military participation in the war."

And there is, too, almost universal acceptance of the idea that strengthening of the nation's military establishment, for defensive purposes, is a wise precaution at this time—based "not on panic but on common sense," as Mr. Roosevelt put it.

It is common sense, also, that whatever costs of army and navy increases are proposed by the president and approved by congress should be met by an immediate tax levy for this purpose, rather than that this become a further piling up of the federal debt by continuance of the deficit spending for which the Roosevelt administration has been responsible.

To just what extent the United States should go in assuring its own safety and in maintaining its rights under international law, is a matter of specialized knowledge rather than common information, and in this it is necessary to have confidence in those representatives of government who serve in these particular fields.

In his direct reference to "dictatorships, and the philosophy of force which justifies and accompanies dictatorships," Mr. Roosevelt was more than ordinarily critical of those who are now "trying European tricks upon us, seeking to muddy the stream of our national thinking, weakening us in the face of danger, by trying to set our own people to fighting among themselves."

This statement was associated with a plea for internal unity by "promotion of our general welfare and domestic tranquility," to which a considerable part of the message was devoted.

The only seriously controversial subject introduced into yesterday's message had to do with reciprocal trade agreements, in which the president strongly supported Secretary Hull's contention that executive authority to make such agreements should be extended beyond the June expiration.

These trade agreements are regarded by their supporters as "an indispensable part of the foundation of any stable and durable peace," and by their opponents as the cause of depressing home markets by importation of foreign goods.

This is among the issues which are expected to bring lively debate in congress before action is taken, with a line-up somewhat remindful of the ancient political bickering over free trade vs. protective tariff, back in the days when "infant industries" were being governmentally nursed.

It will require study of President Roosevelt's budget message, as it appears today, to gain an idea of the extent of "reductions in other items" he deems practicable, in the face of continued demands for enormous federal spending to which a multiplicity of government agencies have become accustomed.

The impression made by yesterday's message would have been much strengthened had it been preceded by a definite statement by Mr. Roosevelt that, under no circumstances, would he accept nomination for a third term.

More Killed In State and County

WHILE complete official figures for the entire United States are not yet available, it appears likely that there was a slight reduction in the national traffic toll last year, as compared with 1938.

In Ohio, however, the reverse was true as 1,775 persons were killed in traffic accidents in this state in 1939 as against 1,708 the preceding year.

The only bright spot in this record is that both 1938 and 1939 marked a considerable decrease from the 2,664 traffic deaths checked up in Ohio during 1937.

An augmented state highway patrol, and at least a semblance of a drivers' license law, with occasional revocations, are largely credited with bringing down the toll in the past two years, despite the increased number of motor vehicles moving on highways.

Safety campaigns in many cities, with more emphasis on the education of drivers, have also played a part in making streets and highways safer than they would have been if the driving habits of 1937 had been continued.

Richland county's 17 per cent increase in traffic deaths last year is well above the state's increase of slightly under 4 per cent, indicating that this county still has a traffic safety problem which demands constant attention until streets and highways have been made less hazardous for motorists and pedestrians.

As the Richland county seat, and largest city in this north-central Ohio area, much of the inspiration for any effective traffic safety program must flow out from Mansfield—which has heretofore had the unenviable distinction of being among the worst cities in Ohio in which to drive.

At least some hope of removing this stigma is found in the expressed determination of Mayor Locke to make a serious effort to improve traffic conditions here. THIS CAN BE DONE!

Happy Average Preferred

FIRST there were the Abundant Twenties and then the Lean Thirties. Now we seem to be emerging into a different period. What will the Forties bring?

It is too soon to tell, but a reasonable guess would be somewhere between those extremes of prosperity and adversity.

And that would probably be all right, as a business level about half-way between those of the last two decades would seem like real prosperity.

It would be better, in any event, than the frenzied ups and downs of the past.

According to Attorney General Frank Murphy, Roosevelt will run for a third term "only in the event of a dire emergency"—which raises the interesting point of just when an emergency becomes dire.

Find a Salt Lick.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IF YOU KNOW cow country you've seen the cattle coming down to the salt lick.

Over the hills they come, sagging along in single file, moving slowly beneath that vast sun-bleached sky, over the sparse, scorched grass, but never for a moment forgetting the thing they're after.

THEY'RE AFTER SALT.

That grass for all its scorched dryness, is succulent. Those hills, in spite of their grim immensity, afford friendly bedding. And the winds are kind—and the trickle of water in the creek is enough for the most exacting cow.

But however soft the bed or green the grass or sweet the water, cows need salt. So somewhere in the hills their owner dumps a great salt chunk and when need drives the herd they come sagging over the mesas and the plains to lay their tongues against its saving bitterness.

Men are like that, too. The bodies of men need salt.

Men have given hope and honor to get salt for their bodies. Men have traded jewels and fought wars because of that tingling madness in their flesh. They might have had other foods in abundance. Sweet, soft food, juicy meat, spicy savories, but without salt all that food lost its savor.

MEN'S SPIRITS NEED SALT TOO.

A ROUGH CHUNK OF EXPERIENCE TO WHICH THEY MUST RETURN FROM TIME TO TIME.

Something primitive, compelling, that would cut through the taste of soft, fat, spicy living.

A SALT LICK—

Sorrow is a salt lick—
Hardship is a salt lick—
Humiliation is a salt lick—
Competition and criticism are salt licks—

So do not try to eliminate these things from your life. Do not try to avoid them. Face them, rather, and be glad for them. Go out and seek them if they do not fall naturally in your lot.

If you have not tasted sorrow, go out and help bear the sorrow of others.

If you have no hardship, accumulate some.

If you have never been humiliated, take a good look at yourself and get that way.

If you have no competition or criticism, court them.

LIFE WITHOUT SALT LOSES ITS SAVOR.

BEWARE OF A LIFE THAT HASN'T A SALT LICK CACHED SOMEWHERE IN ITS HILLS. THAT LIFE IS DOOMED. IT WILL DIE OF ITS OWN SOFTNESS AND SWEETNESS.

Where Is That Freedom?

Sympathizers with Communism have, for natural reasons, been among those who argued most vigorously for academic and artistic freedom in the United States. They must read with some discomfort the account of the dismissal of Howard Rushmore, motion picture reviewer for the Daily Worker, because of his refusal to condemn unqualifiedly the film "Gone With the Wind."

Mr. Rushmore felt that the acting deserved credit and that the treatment of the story was not unhistoric. But adherence to the "party line" called for nothing less than blistering denunciation of the picture for giving a pleasant impression of prewar conditions in the South and for sequences unfavorable to Negroes. Now Mr. Rushmore is out of a job which hadn't paid anything anyhow since a shortage of funds coincided with the Hitler-Stalin pact.

The case for freedom of academic thought and honesty of artistic expression is as strong as ever it was, but it ought to be clearer than ever that the achievement of these boons does not lie in the direction of Communism.—Christian Science Monitor.

Frostbite Does Its Biting Now.

—By DR. CLENDENING

FROSTBITE does not occur very often in these days of pampered living in steam-heated apartments and houses, and in warm motor cars. Among the more rugged of our population, however, those who work in the great outdoors, it still takes its toll.

Dr. Leopold Brahdy, of New York, studied the weather conditions which bring frostbite. He worked with the employes of the street-cleaning and snow-shoveling department, in which there are about 400 cases regularly from December to March. He learned the temperature at which frostbite begins to accur is 8° F. Regardless of humidity or other conditions, frostbite is common at that level. Between 8° F. and 14° F. frostbite occurs only if there is a high wind velocity. Above 24° F. frostbite never occurs.

Fatigue, exhaustion, hunger and malnutrition all contribute to the causation of frostbite. In long treks over frozen territory fatigue and exhaustion naturally play a part because they numb the mentality and prevent noticing the pain and tingling sensations that warn of the approach of the danger, and also stop all preventive measures.

Grease Another Factor.

Grease is another contributory factor. The clothing makes the body warm because of the air layers between the fibers. When these air cells are filled up by oil or grease, it makes the clothing less protective.

Constrained position or posture for a prolonged time without exercise conduces towards the production of frostbite.

Essentially, frostbite is a kind of gangrene—a shutting off of the blood vessels to the affected area. Naturally then, the terminal places on the body, where the circulation is scanty, are the places affected: the tip of the nose, the ears, the fingers and toes. Especially important in prevention is the way the feet are stockinged and shod. For outdoor work or exercise in frostbite weather, thick stockings that have plenty of air spaces are essential.

Not Wise Remedy.

"Rub the affected parts with snow" is the old household wisdom about the treatment of frostbite, but it is not very wise wisdom. It is, in fact, barbarous because snow is gritty and may not only hurt, but actually injure.

"Gradual warming," with the accent on the gradual, is proper treatment, however, and is really what lies back of the "rub with snow" idea. The best initial source of warmth is your own body or that of a companion—hands pressed on the frozen area and accompanied by rubbing to bring back the circulation. Getting indoors and in front of a radiator or good fire can be postponed until later—until circulation is established.

Not So Easy.

It is said that skunks are harmless if treated kindly. The difficulty is in knowing in time just what a skunk considers kind treatment. — American Legion Councillor.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—He was a Greek and he was a waiter and he came from Sparta to the United States, fought with the American army in France, and wound up, eventually, in Sparta, New Jersey, as a waiter in the old Sparta Inn, an Inn where the Colonists used to go for their buttered rum in the days before the Revolution, when Moody's Raiders were sweeping through there.

His name is Teddy Pringos, and he is a very good friend of mine. Sometimes I go up there and fish, or hunt, as the case may be, and a number of years ago I formed the habit occasionally of taking him books to read.

All this time he was a waiter, but after a while, he bought an interest in the Inn, and then in a little while he owned it outright. It wasn't much of a place when Teddy got it, and he began to make a few impovements, now and then, when he got the money.

IN HIS reading he became fascinated with the story of George Washington—he calls him The Fox Hunter—and though he never admitted as much, it was easy to see that Washington had become his hero.

As Teddy read more and as he made new improvements on the Inn, I began to notice something vaguely familiar about its appearance. There wasn't anything I could identify outright. But one year he would add a wing here, and the next he would add a wing there—and finally—last summer that is—it was complete. And, for the first time the full significanse of all these changes became apparent.

It was Mount Vernon. There it was, with its high, white columns, its long verandah, its windows and its strange, sympathetic colonial elegance.

ALL this, you understand, took years—six, seven, maybe eight. . . . But it is there, and so today the Greek who came from Sparta, Greece, to Sparta, New Jersey, is the master of his own particular Mount Vernon—the Sparta Inn—no less than George was master of the home that now is a shrine where thousands of visitors pay their respects every year.

I think I love the Sparta Inn so much because they let me arrive in the middle of the night and amble on back to the kitchen and steal things, out of the icebox without saying anything to anybody. If I want a steak at 4 a. m., I cook it. I have yanked whole turkeys out of the icebox, and whole hams, and all the wonderful fruits that are a matter of course with Inns that are excellently managed, and gorged until I couldn't walk.

I have a date this month to go up there and fish through the ice, and forage in the icebox, and sit comfortably, after it is too dark to fish, in a pleasant bar and swap pleasant talk with a Greek who found in George Washington an inspiration and an ideal.

Ohio Anecdotes

Early Ohio Whipping Post.

NEWARK, as late as 1812, was the scene of one barbaric instance when John Coursen received 50 lashes at a whipping post. The first, and never to be repeated, incident in Licking county was the result of Judge William Wilson's sentence of 5 stripes one morning, 15 at noon and 30 the next day.

A morbidly-curious crowd straining against a rope cordon watched the hapless Coursen make no outcry at the first five blows from the cow-hide lash wielded by a deputy sheriff. When but a red welt was raised at the first swing, the sheriff ordered harder blows. Then four distinct red lines marked Coursen's naked, taut back.

Heart-rending cries, however, answered the first lash of the second performance. Coursen prayed to die as he was led back to the jail.

The second day, Coursen displayed a sorely lacerated and bleeding back to the swelling audience, which reacted so violently to the sight that Licking county judges never again repeated such a sentence.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Those optimistic statements about a short session of congress are a lot of wishful thinking. The boys will still be on hand when June 1 rolls around.

One reason is that there is no need for them to hurry to get through. The presidential convention won't take place this year until late July and early August. The other reason is that the shadow of the momentous fall campaign will dominate everything said and done on Capitol Hill and the session is a cinch to be one of the most acrimonious and politics-ridden in years.

There will be fierce fighting over the Wagner Labor and Wage-Hour Acts, over Secretary Wallace's demand for some form of processing tax to finance the $300,000,000 farm parity payments, over Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade treaties and above all over the slashed budget.

It's on this last issue that you will see party lines crumble and the boys, despite all their brave economy talk and other lofty sentiments, rally together to save their pork.

For there's political murder in that thar budget.

The boys don't know it yet but Roosevelt has ripped $45,000,000 out of the flood control appropriation, whittling it down from $115,000,000 to $70,000,000. The cries of anguish that will go up when this is discovered will rend the heavens from New England to California and from Michigan to Texas. At least two-thirds of the members of both chambers have local stakes in this appropriation, to say nothing of hundreds of contractors and thousands of workers, and with an election in the offing you can bet your boots the boys are going to leave no stone unturned to get their pork. If they don't, it may mean curtains for them in November.

The flood control item is just one of a number that got the axe. The highway appropriation, another prime local pork favorite, was riddled. When Roosevelt merely recommended that last year, congress nearly had a fit.

The boys will jump out of their skins when they see what he actually did to the appropriation this time.

Nope, the session will not be short and there will be little harmony. The cards are stacked for a long and strife-filled engagement.

Run-Out.

THERE is one big battle, however, that may not take place.

It's an inner circle secret but some of the president's closest advisers are strongly urging him to duck the trade treaty fight.

The act expires this year but the pacts negotiated under its continue until they terminate. Practically all the important treaties have been consummated. So the inside boys are counselling the president to let the law lapse quietly and then next year, if the Democrats continue in power, it will be much easier, with no election in the offing, to re-enact it. If the Democrats don't win then it won't make any difference anyway.

Such strategy, the inner circlers point out, will not only circumvent the GOPers who are eagerly whetting their knives to go after the act, but far more important, will keep the dynamite-loaded issue out of the fall campaign.

It's a good bet that this is exactly what will happen, barring unforeseen developments.

Political Go-Round.

AFTER six years of advocating his economic and fiscal theories before committees of congress as an appointive official, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles is quietly weighing a different method to get action — namely by becoming a member of congress. The one-time leading Utah banker has reached no decision as yet, but he may run for the senate next year against the veteran anti-New Deal Democratic Senator William King. Both men are Mormons . . . . Also reported to be harboring secret senatorial ambitious is Arthur Hyde, secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, who may seek the Republican nomination for the seat now held by Missouri's Democratic Senator Harry Truman. . . They don't know it yet, but 140,000 union officials throughout the country will soon get a pamphlet painting in glowing terms the labor record of Democratic presidential aspirant Paul McNutt. The postage bill alone for this barrage will come to $4,200. The addressing is being done by volunteer workers; the printing cost is a secret.

Unique Customer.

BELIEVE it or not but Wendell Willkie, No. 1 utility foe of New Deal power policies, is a patron of the Rural Electrification Administration in Indiana.

Willkie, whose Commonwealth and Southern Corporation made legal history by opposing the TVA, is a member of the Rush County Rural Electric Membership Corporation in southeastern Indiana, one of the most thriving farmers' REA units.

Willkie owns three farms in Rush county and when the REA co-operative was organized, became a member in order to obtain for his farms the electricity that the privately owned S. E. Indiana Power company, from which the co-op buys its current, had not previously made available.

Other members of the co-op are Representative Raymond Springer, Republican, ex-Representative Finly Gray, Democrat, whom Springer defeated, and Robert W. Lyons, owner of the international champion Percheron horse.

Improvement of Wheat

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR seventeen-acre wheat field, since the ground has frozen, does not look so good. Late planting followed by dry weather has worked a hardship on the growing crop. Wheat is the most important plant food that our country uses and should our crop fail, the nation would import this grain from other lands.

The history of wheat is shrouded in mists of distance and of legend. Perhaps some woman of the stone age, when hunters came empty handed from the chase after deer or bear or birds, tried the poor grains of wild wheat crushed between rude stones, and thus appeased the hunger of her family. Then, when she found it good, they planted some and so became the first farmer, miller, baker.

One fact that interests me about this grain is that it contains more nitrogen than other seeds. In addition to this it possesses a stick substance, gluten, which gives its elasticity and makes the flour fit for palatable yeast bread.

For centuries after the first bread was used as food the quality was poor and the yield of wheat scant. But enlarging population gave need for more wheat, and scientists began to work improving both quality and yield. By crossing two varieties . . . dusting the pollen from the male parts of one plant upon the female parts of another variety . . . the best qualities of both parents were preserved.

But climate was important. Wheat that yielded well in moderate climes, often froze when moved to colder localities. A Canadian scientist brought the best varieties from northern Europe and Asia and wedded them with his present stock, and with a few varieties from northern India. At last he found one strain that ripened earlier. He treasured a dozen grains from this head more than a miser does gold. Next season the twelve grains yielded a pound of grain. The next, it yielded two thirds of a bushel. Samples were sent out to other parts of the country and in a few years millions of bushels of Marquis wheat—which means high quality—was raised in Canada.

By this same plan, even better yields have been produced in the United States, and many desirable strains immunized from ravages of disease.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

There was to be an exhibition of old world crafts at Willoughby house, a showing of the weaving, pottery, embroidery and wood carving executed by the older foreign classes. Ellen was occupied by the details in her office when Fabienne came in the next night about nine and dropped wearily into a chair.

"Hello, stranger," Fabienne said, yawning.

"Hello, Fab. How's the rehearsal going?"

"Wonderfully. If the kids don't get stage fright tomorrow night, it ought to be a sensation."

"It ought to be anyway. The work you've put into it! I'm beginning to get worried about you again. I thought you were only going to work a couple of hours a day at the hospital and now you're there so much I never see you."

"It's not hard work. And it'll go much easier now that the play is going on tomorrow night. They can go on without any help from me for the week. We'll start rehearsing another in two weeks. Well, I guess I'd better get back. Have you seen the costumes? They're quite sweet," she said, getting up.

At the door she said, "Have a good time last night?"

Ellen's expression was immediately guilty. "Come back a minute, Fabienne, please," she said.

Fabienne looked at her wrist watch, frowning. "Is it important, Ellen? I ought to be upstairs now."

"Yes, it is important."

Fabienne came back and sat down, wishing she had said nothing to indicate she knew Ellen was out with Nicky the night before. Ellen was so plainly embarrassed.

"I was out with Nicky," she said.

"Camilla Morse mentioned she'd seen you. She thought you were very attractive."

"Thank you. Fab, I wanted to explain how I happened to be out with him."

"It doesn't matter in the least, Ellen. Didn't you once tell me that there was no need of explanations between us? Why shouldn't you be out with Nicky? I have no strings on him. He doesn't belong to me.

Ellen bit her lip nervously. She didn't know whether Fabienne was picqued or not. Her voice was so level.

"Nevertheless, I want to tell you about it. He rang up about nine and I said you—you wouldn't be home until later. Nicky was—was in a dancing mood and happened to—"

"Oh, for heaven's sake, Ellen, what difference does it make?" she asked irritably. And, aware of the irritation, she added hastily, "Did you enjoy yourself?"

Ellen nodded.

"Then that's all that's necessary."

The exchange did not make Ellen feel any better about it but, obviously, there was nothing more to say. To cover her embarrassment, she said. "Have you heard Bill's news?"

Fabienne had got up a second time to go back to her rehearsal. She paused at the door to turn quickly when Ellen asked that question.

She shook her head, asking for news with her eyes.

"Remember his telling us about Dr. Forrester?"

Again Fabienne shook her head negatively.

"Oh, I thought he had. Well, Dr. Forrester was his research prof at college and Bill has always wanted to go out and work with him." Fabienne was beginning to remember, with her heart diving into her slippers. It was somewhere in Colorado. It might as well have been in Tibet as far as her seeing him went, should he go away.

"He did say something about it."

"Dr. Forrester has a laboratory in Colorado and Bill has always been hoping to go out there, but he couldn't afford to up to now."

"And now he can?" Fabienne asked, feeling her lips stiffen on the question.

"Yes," Ellen answered. Ellen looked so proud! "Dr. Forrester wrote to tell him that a physician in a nearby town wants a young man to take over his practice. Bill thinks that he could run a practice and still have time for research. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Very," Fabienne said curtly. At least it sounded curt because she couldn't talk about it.

She couldn't bear to think of the long days, months, years ahead of her before she could get him out of her memory, months and years that Ellen would be sharing with him. No wonder Ellen looked proud and happy.

Fabienne said, "How soon is he going?"

"Not until May or June. By the way, don't tell him I told you. He'll undoubtedly want to tell you himself."

"Not a word," Fabienne said, turning away finally to return to the theater above.

All that night the new knowledge lay heavily on her heart, but when she saw Bill at the hospital the next afternoon, she gave him no sign of the tears that still filled it.

She was in Sonny Parsons' room, reading rhymes to the four-year-old when Bill came in.

Bill nodded to her and sat down beside the small white bed. "How you doing, Big Feller?" he said to the curly-headed child.

"My rabbit has a green hat," Sonny answered, holding up a ragged toy with a St. Patrick's day favor on its head.

"Sure it has. And his name is Mike," Bill told him.

"Next week we're going to move into the ward where we can play with other children," Fabienne told Bill.

He shook his head. "Sonny is a big, strong boy now. He's going to be discharged Wednesday or Thursday whenever his granddaddy comes for him."

"So soon?" Fabienne asked surprised. Sonny had had pneumonia when she came to the hospital fifteen days before.

"Sure. He's a tough youngster. Also, he'll have the best of care. In fact, his granddaddy is taking him to the south of France. They're sailing Friday, I believe."

Local Lady Glad To Praise Medicine That Does So Much

Recommends grand compound Vendol to all friends and the public. Gave amazing relief for stomach upsets due to constipation.

It is really a shame the way so many people neglect their health. If their auto, radio, washing machine gets out of fix they can't have it repaired too quickly but, the same person likely neglects the signals from his body that something is needed. Most everyone needs a "going over" occasionally and there is no better medicine for this purpose than Vendol, that is so well known here and praised by some of the leading citizens who have taken it.

Mrs. Jasper Hook of 21 Bell Street, Mansfield whose husband is employed in Out Door Advertising, gave her praise for Vendol to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store recently as follows. "I had not been feeling my best lately because I was constipated all the time and this brought about many troubles such as a gassy, sour, acid, upset stomach after eating, dizzy feeling and other symptoms.

"The gas made me about as miserable as one could be and sometimes I felt nauseated and nervous and often awakened feeling as tired as when I went to bed with a dull headache feeling bilious dizzy with a coated tongue, bad taste in my mouth and little spots danced before my eyes. I just lacked the punch I always had before.

MRS. JASPER HOOK

"Vendol was praised by so many people that I got some and also a box of the little Vendol laxative tablets, and this medicine acted like a charm giving the most satisfying relief from constipation that I ever had, then all those troubles due to it were soon only a memory and now I never have a dizzy feeling, headache, or see spots, I enjoy hearty meals with no gas, sourness, nausea, or full, bloated feeling and my nerves have relaxed so well that I enjoy restful sleep I feel so well that Im glad to add my praise for a medicine like Vendol that does so much."

Why not give Vendol a chance to help you, too? The Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., and will gladly explain all about it and advise you honestly whether or not he thinks it will help you. Vendol is also sold by most all other leading druggists.

Poor Mistreated Tootsies

By MME. QUI VIVE

You can wear the most beautiful frock that was ever put together with needle and thread, have a complexion like ice cream and roses, sport a coiffure that is high art, but if your little hoofs hurt you and you appear to be walking on eggs you haven't a ghost of a show for beauty medals. A woman who looks uncomfortable does not look attractive. And for the poor dear who hobbles around on spiked heels that are attached to shoes several sizes too small there is not even pity. The critical mind regards her as an individual who hasn't good sense.

Shoe manufacturers who engage specialists to make surveys on foot ills deplore the popularity of the spiked heel. They produce it because the cash customers demand it. Time and again they put out new lines, lasts that make for health and comfort. These sensible models don't move, they stay on the shelves. Only a small minority buy them. And let it be said to the credit of teen age girls that they fight spikes tooth and nail, insisting upon shoes that provide freedom of movement. Interest in outdoor life is an influence. But older women who wouldn't exercise if you paid them keep right on packing their tootsies into tight cases.

The size of the foot should be appropriate to the size of the body. A heavyweight wearing tiny shoes—they aren't really so small; they look that way because heels are high and toes narrow—is out of balance. And that reminds us that many accidents are caused by high heels with small bases because the foothold is uncertain.

For street wear the shoe with the boulevard heel and plenty of toe space is not only the sensible selection, but the fashionable choice. Women who have established reputations as good dressers are suitably shod.

Another point: chiropodists report that feminine feet get little attention until they suffer unbearable twinges. Millions of money and hours of time spent on hair, complexions and finger nails, while nothing is done for the abused little trotters.

When feet smart and burn, soak them in tepid water in which baking soda has been dissolved. Dry thoroughly, massage with mineral oil and wrap them in towels that have been wrung out of cold water. This treatment gives almost immediate relief.

No sharp instrument other than clippers to trim the toe-nails should be used. Gouging into corns or digging into the hardened flesh of ingrowing nails is a practice that has been responsible for many a serious infection. These troubles are caused by pressure; the only permanent cure is found in comfortable booties.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Jan. 5.

An exceedingly lively and enterprising day, with much stirring to further ambitions and aspirations, is read from the prevailing astral influences. Those in power and financial standing seem ready to co-operate with friendly assistance. Cultivate these sources, especially those of political, diplomatic or fraternal influence, or those in large corporations. Friendship counts.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a very progressive, productive and prosperous year, with all things moving in the direction of advanced goals and lofty ambitions at high tempo and with much verve and initiative. Those of position, prestige and financial standing heartily co-operate, especially those in politics, diplomacy, secret bodies or large corporations. The social or convivial aspects of important propositions prove lucrative and lead to some high honor or sign of preferment.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, ambitious and well-equipped for attaining advanced objectives and high positions in life, with the friendship and preferment of those in high places.

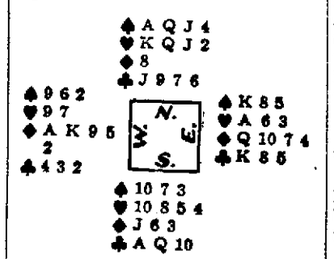
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

UNBLOCK HIS SUIT

Seldom does a hardened campaigner lead an honor of an unbid suit against a hostile No Trump contract unless he has another honor in sequence with it, plus at least one other card as high as a nine or higher. This enables a careful card-reading partner to figure out what cards to use for signaling, in order not to block the suit, if he has some high ones himself and wants to clear the way for the leader's longer holding.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable. North-South part score 30.)

North bid 1-Spade to open this deal, South 1-No Trump and North made the incorrect bid of 2-No Trumps instead of 2-Hearts because 2-No Trumps would produce the 70 points needed to make a game.

West led the diamond K. East's conventional way to signal was by playing his next highest card first and his next to lowest second. But he was afraid to put his 10 on the first trick, so signaled with the 7. The A won the second trick, then the 5 was led to East's Q. The 1 won the fourth trick, but West could never get in to take his last diamond. East's only other trick was with the heart A, as the declarer scored four tricks in clubs, three in hearts and one in spades.

Had East realized West had with his A-K also the J or 9, he would have played first the 10, then the 7 of diamonds, would have won the third trick with the Q, led back the 4 to the 9 and 2, and the contract would have been beaten beyond cavil.

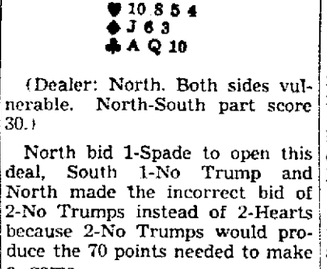
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

What bidding would you recommended on this deal?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

What price now, I asked myself, for my hope that Olga would become Philip Veritzen's wife, and from that position influence him to cease his plots against Mary and Noel, and so to distract Olina with the perquisities of wealth and of his glittering theatrical world, which she would enjoy as his stepdaughter, that she would have neither time nor inclination for any further pursuit of Noel.

There was only one hope for me, and it was contained in Olga's unconscious betrayal of her own emotions in the cry, "And he was the hero of my youthful dreams!" Her brain and her sense of fair play might disapprove of Philip Veritzen, but her heart, I believed, was his, as when he had first won it long ago in Transvania.

I summoned every bit of resourcefulness and guile that I possessed, and spoke with contrition that I did not need to pretend—if there were a more contrite woman in all Long Island, I told myself, she must be an emotional wreck.

"I am terribly sorry I told you that suspicion of ours about Mr. Veritzen," I said.

"Why?" she demanded resolutely. "It is a great blow, certainly, but I am immeasurably thankful that I found out about him."

There was something infinitely mournful in her tone, and I hurried into penitent speech.

"But," I said, "you must remember we have no proof of this present plot. Except for the fact that he has drilled her in a technically perfect but lifeless rendition of her role, Lillian and I have no real reason to believe our suspicions are justified."

"Oh!" Her voice was suddenly living, vital again. "I did not understand that. May there not be the possibility that you are mistaken? You know this seems so unlike Philip as I have known him."

"It is totally unlike the Philip Veritzen whom Lillian and I have known." I told her truthfully. "He is high-minded, generous to a fault, chivalric. Only on one subject, and with one person, does he step out of character and show himself ungenerous."

"You mean —" she paused breathlessly.

"I mean his son, Noel," I returned. "When Noel was but a boy at college, he was expelled for theft because he would not betray a friend, Jack Leslie. Instead of standing by him, his father tossed him unceremoniously out into the world, penniless, even withholding from him, by a technicality, the patrimony which his dead mother had left in trust for him.

"Noel finally found employment in a cafe as a musician—he is a wonderful violinist. Jack Leslie, for whom he had sacrificed himself, was a dancer there, and Mary, in a mad escapade which, fortunately, resulted in no harm to her, danced there masked for a time. Noel fell violently in love with Mary, rescued her from an attempt by Jack Leslie to abduct her, and never thereafter wavered in his wooing. But his father never approved, although his opposition did not crystalize until your daughter came to Long Island."

Queen Olga's face was suddenly tender instead of stern

"I understand it all now," she said. "Poor, dear Philip, whose pride is his curse."

These Will Help Bent Budgets

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

HAS THE old budget hit the skids, suffering from the holiday blues? Well, if so, as is the case with most of us after lavish holiday meals, what about getting busy with some good but inexpensive dishes?

A frankfurter roast with a delicious prune stuffing is a grand dish; economical, too, since the recipe given here is for six or eight servings. It is made with one and one-half cups cooked prunes, one-fourth cup butter, two cups sliced celery, one cup chopped onion, two teaspoons sage, two and one-half quarts toasted bread cubes, two cups soup stock or bouillon, one to one and a half dozen frankfurters (depending on size). To make the stuffing, first pit and slice the prunes. Saute vegetables in butter to wilt and not to brown. Combine with sage, bread cubes and stock, season to taste and blend thoroughly. Add prunes and blend lightly. Line a two-quart casserole or pan with waxed paper. Line sides with frankfurters, placing one on top of the other, lengthwise, around sides, cutting some of them, if necessary, to fit the casserole. Press a layer of stuffing firmly against frankfurters to hold them in place. Fill center with remaining stuffing and smooth stuffing over surface of casserole to cover frankfurters. Bake one hour in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Remove from oven and cool slightly. Invert onto serving platter and lift dish carefully to avoid disarranging mold. Carve crosswise to serve.

Inexpensive, Nourishing.

Escalloped Corn in an inexpensive but nourishing and tasty luncheon or supper dish. To make it, line up two cups corn, one-fourth teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, one-eighth teaspoon granulated sugar, two-thirds cup crumbs, four tablespoons butter (melted) and two-thirds cup hot milk. Mix ingredients in order given and pour into buttered baking dish. Bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Vel is not a soap. It is an entirely different washing principle. Vel is one hundred times as soluble as soap in cold water. For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.
